

Bachelor of Applied Sciences

Child, Youth & Family

ABOUT THE PROGRAM

The Child, Youth & Family major examines the psychological, social and physical conditions which influence the growth and development of children and adolescents. While the primary focus of the major is on children and youth, the program regards the family as the primary context of development and as the key to successful interventions for children with developmental, behavioural, or socio-emotional difficulties. Courses in child and youth development, physiology, couple and family dynamics, research methodology and statistics are taught by recognized leaders in their fields and provide theoretical and first-hand experience with children and youth.

WHY CO-OP?

As a co-op student, you will gain relevant work experience, build professional networks and develop essential interpersonal skills needed to succeed in the workplace while getting paid and earning your university degree. Guelph's co-op program is unique due to the exceptional level of support provided, including an in-class preparatory course, a personal connection with a Co-op Co-ordinator to assist you during the employment process, and access to senior student mentors.

SAMPLE JOBS

Below are some examples of past Child, Youth & Family co-op positions.

Residential Care Worker

Duties in this position revolve around creating a comfortable and relaxed environment where youth receive nurturing programming reflective of their interests. You will plan and coordinate community recreational programs for youth while ensuring their safety and welfare at all times. Additionally, this role will require you to maintain professional and confidential relationships with clients, families, and agency officials.

Teaching Assistant

As a Teaching Assistant in a Toddler or Preschool aged setting, you will assist Daycare Teachers in providing high quality daily supervision and programming for children aged 18 months to 5 years. You will also communicate with parents and learn to demonstrate a responsive style of interaction, while working within the philosophical framework of the centre.

Knowledge Repository Assistant

Many duties will be performed in this role to support the maintenance of a company's data and research records. You will verify data, perform quality assurance checks, create new records, and report changes that are needed. Excellent organization and time management skills are required for this position, and you will actively develop your Microsoft Office proficiency, as well as database management knowledge.
